MUST RULE OR RUIN.

The Creat Struggle to Take Place at Richmond.

Richmond.

New York, Aug. 30.—The exposure of the Home Club's alleged attempt to kill General Master Workman Powderly, as published in the Pittsburg Sunday Leader, has agitated Knights of Labor circles in this city. Several members were seen today, who united in denouncing the Home Club in unmeasured terms. One of them said: "The Home Club has brought much disgrace on the order. I could tell of numerous instances. It is a notorious fact that the recent investigation by a committee of the general assembly has been a whitewashing affair. The Home Club must rule or ruin. With this end in view any one who is opposed to their principles will be driven from their order if possible. If a man applies for membership and they imagine that he will be an enemy to them, he will be blackballed. A case of this kind occurred in the boatmen's strike recently, when several prominent members of the Boatmen's Union were blackballed for no other reason except that their influence was feared.

"For over a year 232 Brooklyn men have fried to form a mixed district, but the Home Club's influence has been exerted against them successfully to keep them out unit after the General Assembly at Richmond.

"I fear that they will try to disrupt the order if they cannot control the Richmond meeting. At that time will occur the greatest struggle ever known in the order. The Home Club will stop at nothing, not even murder, to effect their ends. Victor Drury, the leader, is an offshoot of the Paris Commune, and has been trying to make D. A. 49 an engine of socialism."

The throat is described as being a dirty white, while the back appeared to be mottled with a light and dark brown. The Explosion at Monson.

Monson, Aug. 30.—In the opinion of a New York arrest of the price would be reduced to 6½ and 4½ to the others. In consequence of this move of the halibut grompany the fishermen got a good price for their fish, and the fishermen of the six yessels have probably $1000 to share up, but the opposition company was silenced for the time being. They could not afford to purchase at 8 and 6 have the other trips sold at 6½ and 4½, for the halibut market would have taken a tumble, and the opposition buyers would have been the losers.

Hall's office at Monson. This was placed in the centre of the floor and discharged by the use of fuse and exploded as no traces of cartridge shells could be found. The centre of the floor was blown downwards, the walls tirely. An alarm of fire brought out the inhabitants when it was discovered that the carpet in the office had caught fire. Dr. Hall was in Boston at the time. Those who heard it thought it was a land slide in Heron Pond quarry. A safe in the office was ntouched, and, as robbery was not the motive, the people there are at a loss to know what induced the person or persons t

CHICAGO, Aug, 30.—James Dubnstock, the only person who has been found that really saw the explosion of the powder-house yesterday, says: "I was walking towards John Jung's house, holding an umbrella over my head. The wind came from my back, and I held my umbrella back a little, which allowed me to look ahead. I was on the Archer road, a little over an eighth of a mile away from Laflin & Rand's powder-house, and happened to be looking at it. The same instant that my eyes rested on it, and I know not why, I singled out this particular powder-house, while there were so many like it nearer to me—a long, zigzag streak of lightning darted across the sky and then a fiery line came down and struck fairly on the powder-house. In the moment that elapsed between the flash and the explosion I realized that something terrible was about to happen. I thought so fast I had determined to run long before I could move a muscle of my body to effect that object. Then, as if it had been swept away like a mist. I saw the bricks and stones of the powder-house suddenly disappear in the earth. The ground shook beneath my feet, and I clutched at the swaying fence near me. A deep rumbling noise filed my ears, and the next instant a stream of fire shot into the air like the pictures I have often seen of Mount Vessuvious.

"I knew no more for at least ten minutes." from a three inch hose was playing upon the fire. Nearly all the goods in the main building occupied by Weston & Emery and by H. F. Elder, were removed before it was known that the fire could be put out. The posts, timbers and floors in part of the cellar were badly charred; and many of the goods damaged to an extent which cannot be computed, as it is not known how much the smoke penetrated into the flour, salt, etc., with which the cellar was filled. The Alleged Cases of Diphtherla at Brunswick.

Brunswick, Aug. 30.—As there has been more or less published in the papers relative to the condition of the affairs at the Cabot company's tenement block, it was felt in justice to both the Cabot company and the justice to both the Cabot company and the town to have a thorough examination made by the resident physicians which was done Saturday with the following result:

Saturday with the following result:

"The undersigned were called upon by Mr. Benjamin M. Green, agent of the Cabot company to visit and examine various alleged cases of diphtheria in the tenements of said Cabot company. We examined five cases, all that we discovered or were presented by Dr. Pare, the attending physician. In one of these we found the case so far convalescent that a positive opinion seemed impossible. It bore evidence of having been either diphtheria in a mild form of follicular tonsilitis in a scroflous child. The second case was pronounced follicular tonsilitis. The third case gave no local evidence of diphtheria. In the fourth case no evidence of diphtherietic character were discovered. The fifth occupied such a position that we could not positively pronounce it follicular tonsilitis or mild diphtheria. These were all the cases of sickness that were presented to us as existing in the Cabot area.

when Hon. George B. Loring said the collection of blooded cattle was the finest ever gathered in the world. Two hundred and forty-five horses have been entered for the society's premiums while in the trotting and running races there are no less than 250 entries. There are eighteen races to be trotted and run in the four days. These range from $100 for two-years-olds to a grand sweep-stake race Friday for a purse of $1500. There will be six running races, ranging from a one-mile dash to a two-mile hurdle for six hurdles. The total purses in both classes are $5075. Running horses have arrived in large numbers from New Brunswick, Boston, Newport, L. I., Swansea, Mass., and Nova Scotia. The Provinces, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, and Nova Scotia will be represented in the trotting. The display in the agricultural implement department will be large, the principal exhibitors being Boston firms. The cattle department has contributors from all over New England.

On the big day last year 20,000 passed into the park, and 30,000 are expected this year. An immense balloon goes up Wednesday. Nick Roberts' circus has been taken into the fair grounds for the week, while numerous side shows and fakirs are gathering. All the rooms at the hotels are engaged, but citizens will open their houses, and Boston and Bangor steamers are converted, when here, into floating hotels, and all who come will be accommodated. The Maine Central has all available rolling stock at excursion points. All officers of the New England society are to be present to assist in making the fair a success.

President Loring, Secretary Needham and Treasurer Riddle of the New England society are to be present to assist in making the fair a success.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 30.—The Swedish steamer Victoria has arrived here from Girgenti, with a cargo of 1,900 tons of sulphur, after a terrific and eventful passage of 25 days. The Victoria made sail from Girgenti on the 3rd instant. Everythiag went along smoothly until Saturday, the 21st instant, when in latitude 36.46, longitude 62.29, the wind began to freshen from the east-south-east, and at 8 p. m. it shifted to the east-northeast. The barometer began to fall rapidly and all the sails were taken in but the lower foretopsail. At 9 p. m. the wind came up from the northeast with hurricane force and the sea began to rise and break all over the vessel. GLOUCESTER, Mass., Aug. 30.—The excitement in the halibut market this morning was intense, and though the halibut pool endeavored to boycott an outside firm, and finally succeeded, some of the fishermen reaped a decided benefit. There were six schooners in, the Frederick Gerring, Lizzie Greenleaf, Velociped, Dacotah, Restless and Gladstone. The aggregate weight of fresh halibut was 65,000 pounds.

Saturday the price paid for halibut was seven and five cents, and with six trips in the price would have taken a tumble, resulting in a loss to the fishermen, but for the competition of the firm of Dennett & Wonson. The firm wanted one or two trips, and made an offer. The halibut company succeeded in getting a conference with the skippers of the six vessels, and the edict was issued that if one trip of halibut was landed at Dennett & Wonson's the price to be paid the fishermen would be 6½ and ½. Of course this was a clear boycett.

William Dennett, of the firm of Dennett & Wonson, offered one skipper 50 cents a hundred more than the halibut company had offered, but the skipper could not accept; if he did the price would be reduced to 6½ and ½ to the others. In consequence of this move of the wind it was impossible to make any efforts to save the unfortunate man, who was never seen again after the sea struck position buyers would have been the losers liar aspects. One of the skippers of the halibut fleet at present in port here was at Portland last week and sent a telegram to a man interested in the vessel here, asking the price of halibut here, and how much fish there was in the market. The despatch was directed to a certain place, but the messenger could not find the man and went to the halibut company's wharf, where there was a man of the same name. This man took the telegram, although he could not read or write, the messenger signing for him. That despatch was detained by some one, and it is understood that a similar fate was met by a despatch sent to Portland fish buyers that they could purchase all the halibut they wanted in Gloucester for 3 and 5 cents. It is plain to see how fishermen are boycotted at Portland and obliged to sell at the price fixed by the halibut pool. CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—A special despatch was printed here yesterday relating to an alleged attempt that was made in 1883 to assassinate Grand Master Workman T. V. Powderly, Knights of Labor. Grand Lecturer Carlton, Knights of Labor, was asked by a reporter yesterday as to the truth of the despatch. He replied that he had not heard anything before about the plot to assassinate Powderly. MR. BOMELL'S VIEWS.

Streigth of the Prohibition ement Overestimated.

[New York Tribune.] J. R. Bodwell, the Republican nominee for Governor of Maine, was at the Murray Hill Hotel yesterday. He does not intend to take the stump himself, but he feels confident of his election by a liberal majority in Maine, and thinks that the strength of the prhibition vote has been largely overestimated outside of Maine "The third party vote will be much less of lection day than it appears to be today," he aid. "The thinking prohibitionists fully realize that their only hope of executing the prohibition laws is by keeping the republican party in power. The republican party is and always has been the party of prohibition, and the strict anti-liquor laws now in existand the strict anti-nquor laws now in exist-ence emanated from it. The prohibitionists themselves are responsible in many instances because the laws are not strictly enforced, since many of them do not exert their indi-ence many of them do not exert their indi-and do all in my power to prevent the sale of liquor in my town.

"The Democrats are doing their utmost to magnify the strength of the Prohibition party, but with small secess. As far as the Labor party is concerned I think we have little to fear. As a rule the Knights of Labor will cast their ballother or the regular candidates according to their espective political faiths. We have gained few accessions from the Knights in the last search and manymore will probably come over standard before the election. Then, showber of confirmed Democrats have promised meters of confirmed Democrats have promised the standard to th standard before the election. Then the standard before the election. Then the standard bemocrats have promised the standard bemocrats have promised the standard looks on the whole as though would poll a handsome majority. The only drawback we are likely to encounter is that some of the Republicans will feel so sure of a victory that they will not think it worth their while to go to the polls."

"Will the handling of the fishery question by the present administration have any effect in the Statelelection?"

"Yes, and to a considerable extent. Those engaged in the fishing industry are thoroughly disgusted with Secretary Bayard's course, and by coming out strong for the Republican ticket they will show their approval of Mr. Blaine's well-defined position on the question."

SKETCH OF DR. R. C. FLOWER'S

Araerican Spectator of Boston.

Dr. Flower's success in the practice of nedicine has for years been a wonder. Why is it that he, a young man but 26 years of age, show I have thousands and thousands of almost every town and county in the United States, patients in every country on earth? His enemies said some years ago. His fame is but short-lived; his practice will soon subside." In this they were mis-taken. He has under his professional care to-day thousands of patients more than he ever had before. His fame has extended into the old world, and to-day among his happy and grateful patients are those from the different European states, Bagdad in Asia, Bombay, China, Ceylon, and the home of the Japanese. No one for a moment doubts that his fame as a physician will ever live as long as he cures when all others fail, and snatches from death's altar the sick and dying when abandoned by all the medical world, given up to die. As long as he can diagnose a disease, telling his patient his rouble (without asking a question) better than the patient can tell himself, just so long will the sick and suffering seek his aid from all parts of the earth.

The question difficult to solve is, How canthe doctor attend to all who seek his service? Aided by the best of help at his home office, Dr. Flower has been enabled during the last few years to make three or four trips a year across the continent, and occasionally a visit almost around the States, thus enabling him to see tens of thousands of patients who were unable to endure a journey to Boston. It is now believed that these transontinental visits will have to be abandoned, so great, in fact unmanageably great, has his practice become at his home as to demand is entire time. While Dr. Flower may not absolutely discontinue his western and southern visits, he will do so at the earliest practical period. The crowds which daily throng his offices, No. 1765 Washington Street, Boston, would remind one of a public entertainment or gath-ring as they come and go. A closer examition will soon reveal the true cause of the reath, slowe are consumptives, short of les and rheumaticuding the stons: paraly, bycratches or canes, the lipd, the dear, the mamed are there In fact every disease flesh mamed are there. In fact every disease flesh is heir to is daily reseased at Dr. Flower's offices.

The writer has carefus, studied Dr. Flower's nethods of practice be years, witnessed hundreds of exfinations, and been permitted in many cases to follow the treatment to the close. Success is the result of his large experience; his almost supernatural diagnost supernuman efforts to cure; and his absolute candor on all occasions. Pr. Flower never asks persons to describe their disease. He can tell after once seeins them their trouble better than they can tell 'hemselves. He reads the interior condition and minutely describes the disease as the school boy would the open book. I never knew no heard of Dr. Flower making a mistake in the examination of a patient. This statement may fall under the eyes of many of his old patients, who will say, "Yes, he told me, when he examined me, my troubles better than I could tell them myself." How he can with an unerring accuracy read a man's disease like an open page, is a secret, and one which any physician could well affort to give four-fifths of his life to understand. Whether this is explainable as natural or supernatural, I do not know. Dr. Flower diselaims anything supernatural, but does not explain now he does it. But let this be as it may, able to detect one's disease and describe it in all its detail, it is not likely he will make a mistake in the treatment. The great trouble in general practice has always been that doctors experiment with their patients. Not knowing what the disease is, they more frequently doctor them for troubles they do not have, than for the real disease. This mistake, not becen quently doctor them for troubles they do not have, than for the real disease. This mistake, for the reasons above given, does not occur with Dr. Flower.

Dr. Flower spares nothing in the treatment with Dr. Flower.

Dr. Flower spares nothing in the treatment and care of his patients; he never considers the cest. If he takes a case the only thing, apparently, in his mind is, What must be done to cure my patients? His remedies are all made from ingredients as chemically pure as they can be obtained. Dr. Flower is thoroughly liberal, and will use anything in the treatment of a patient which will aid in the cure, whether in harmony with, or contrary to, his or any other school of practice. His position is this: that a human life is of more value than the sacredness of the ethical code of any medical school; that the practice of medicine is largely experimental; that the theories of the cause and treatment of disease are changing. The books change; and he would rather cure his patients contrary to all books, in opposition to the methods of any school, than to kill them or allow them to die according to the books. This position of Dr. Flower will meet with great favor at the hands of the many thousands of liberal thinkers—and as well with opposition by the bigoted physician, who would rather his patient would die than be cured by any method not known to his school. Nevertheless, it is the position of cander and honesty, which the sick and suffering ail over the world will say is right. Dr. Flower was for years under the instruction of Dr. Andrew Stone, of Troy, N. V. Dr. Stone was a noted physician of the is right. Dr. Flower was for years under the instruction of Dr. Andrew Stone, of Troy, N. Y. Dr. Stone was a noted physician of the regular school. In his later life he became more liberal, and established, by speciat endowment, his private institute for students. (Dr. Stone was a well known active practitioner during the greater portion of his life on Fifth avenue, New York City.) Dr. Flower went through Dr. Stone's lengthy course of study and received his diploma from the hands of his distinguished preceptor. He afterwards graduated at the American Health College, of Cincinnati, O., which represents one of the most liberal courses of study in the country. Consequently, he light be regarded one of the most liberal or adical of the eelectic school. Dr. Flower is agreat student, and has always been, though he believes that, at best, the most diligent stdent in this life will approach only the ede of the water of the great sea of knowledg.

Lies Dr. Flower cure all his patients? is freqently asked. He does not; nor does he clain to. But that he cures a larger number or a astly greater per cent, than find aid elsewere, is a fact beyond any question or doubt It should not be forgotten that the greate portion of Dr. Flower's patients only come t him after they have been given up by othe physicians, and their diseases pronounce cincurable. nouncetineurable.

It is sid that Dr. Flower's greatest power is seen a desperate cases. This I am inclined to think is so. I have frequently known of his being called to the sick bed after physicians had been changed, consultations held, and death declared to be the inevitable and smost immediate result. I have seen him ener these death chambers with a smile on hisface, take the dying sufferer by the hand for a few moments, then prepare his remedies, break the silence then by saying: "The wirst is over; he will be better to-morrow, and soon be well again." I have never known those death-bed predictions to, fail. By what power he can go into the

By what power he can go into the death-chambers, ever when respiration is growing labored, and the death watchers have taken their places, cause an immediate reseation in the progress of the disease, and speedily bring the sufferer back to health and life, I know not. But that he has done of in almost numberless intenses. hundred. oston and vicinity, who has made, for cars, a careful study of Dr. Flower's prac Those who may wish to know more of this famous physician and his cures, will, by sending a two cent stamp to Deland and Barta, No. 54 Pearl st., Beston, Mass. receive a copy of their publication descriptive of his labors in the fields of disease and death.
